'Pooh to You' by Marion Lifka Is Lead Article for Labarum

Sporting a stylish cover of Nile green and navy blue, the summer edition of the Labarum, Clarke's literary magazine, is scheduled for distribution on May 28.

Culminating her four years on the Labarum staff, editor Marion Lifka presents the lead article, "Pooh to You," an account of A. A. Milne's whimsical animal personalities.

Two "arty" essays will be featured in this issue. Mary Frances Schultz offers her spirited essay, "Apologia Pro Pablo Picasso," in defense of the famous artist, and Carol Sprengelmeyer obtained material for a personal interview, "Art and the Man," from art instructor Edmund Demers.

Pictures Auction

Ruth Ann Bunker draws upon her past experience to show why the pulses of young and old beat faster when the auctioneer chants, "Going, Going, Gone."

A unique venture in amateur musical productions as exhibited by the Quad-City Music Guild is the subject of Mary Hilger's "Summer — On Stage!"

Write Fiction

As her final contribution to the fiction department, Kathleen Sullivan presents "Weekend," the story of a self-involved male office worker and a lonely female co-worker. Also presenting her last story to the magazine, Mary Dougherty tells of an imaginative little boy who learns to accept reality after "The Bus Ride."

The frontispiece is the work of Mary Ann Ludwig. Other illustrators are Carol Sprengelmeyer, Maralyn Hoare, Charlene Craighead, Fran Dietter and Marian Wolters.

In addition to the classic ballet, Miss Hawthorne will include in her program modern jazz dances and Spanish dances.

Gonna Take Sentimental Journeys

For better or for worse, in sickness and in health, till graduation do us part. From the 10:10 chorals to the annual picnics, everything we have lived at Clarke will be revived often in our memories.

How many times have we joked about Clarke being "our home away from home?" Yet the truth is oft spoken in jest, say the bards. Where have we found more care and kindness away from our parents?

Gratitude. Does the word express it enough? And loyalty. Can the heart shout the feeling?

We try not to be sentimental. We say, "It's going to be hard being off on our own, but we won't miss classes and exams!" Then at night when we lie awake and think about leaving in a few weeks, it's a different story. We remember our life at Clarke and say, "It was great. The ups and downs together made it that way." No matter what we have chosen for our work after graduation, we can never replace these green years, the best years of our lives.

Strangers have remarked about the all-embracing spirit they found here. Perhaps we can take some of that spirit with us, even though we are leaving such a big part of ourselves at Clarke.

We try not to be sentimental. But we're going to miss Clarke, not just our friends and our good times, but everything that we went through together, for better or for worse.

If We Had It To Do Over... Here's What We'd Do

Most of the graduating seniors, on looking over the accomplishments of four years, seem to have decided they wouldn't change much — except to add a few activities.

Donna Becker, Davenport, would have done everything to a greater degree:

If I had my college years to live over again, I would do just what I did these past four years. BUT I would do the same things in such a way that in the end, I would have more return for my efforts. I wouldn't spend any more time studying, but I would concentrate harder during the hours I did spend. In recreation hours, I would recreate more diligently, and in time set aside for quiet, I would be more quiet. If I did this I would be even happier on graduation day than I am now — if that is possible.

Nancy Schmitz, Dubuque, would have acted with an eye toward the future:

In living my life at Clarke over again I would probably worry just as much about exams, continue to type papers the night before the deadline and study as much as I have. In short, I really wouldn't change a thing except that, as a freshman, I would have paid more attention to Loras seniors since my fiancee was graduated in 1953.

Sue Kelly, La Crosse, Wis., evaluates her college career:

Each moment was spent for a worthwhile cause — whether on practicing or studying. Feeling that all work and no play makes Sue a dull girl, I balanced the former with a good share of partying. Although there was a lot of work connected with my musical activities, it was enjoyable work. But I do regret not having time to read more.

Dorothy McIntee, Waterloo, takes a practical view:

I would have to do it all just the same if I wanted to graduate! However, I would have studied more diligently in order to have more time for other activities, for reading current books, keeping up on political events and talking over coffee at the Grill.

Mary Dougherty Suggests Book List For Reading Program This Summer

About this time of the year, students begin thinking about the reading they are going to do during the comparative-ly lazy summer months. The Courier decided to do a bit to help those who are having difficulties compiling a summer reading list. Here are a few suggestions.

This election year would prove a fine time to supplement your understanding of the highest office in our land. Clinton Rossiter has just published a small book, The American Presidency, which describes the historic evolution of the office in this country. The book has been described as "possibly the best general book on the presidency that has ever been written. It is certainly the most readable."

Rachel Carson, a recognized authority on the vast undersea world, commends James Dugan's Man Under the Sea, but suggests that it be read in snatches. Miss Carson says Dugan is able to "compress 5,000 years of undersea history within a book of moderate size."

Out in time for careful summer perusal is the first volume of Churchill's History of the English-Speaking Peoples. The subject of volume one is The Birth of Britain. For a scholarly, balanced view of the much discussed dead sea scrolls read Father Graystone's The Dead Sea Scrolls and the Living Church.

In the ever-popular field of biography there are some interesting new publica-

An Open Letter

Since this is the season for thank you's, it's my time to acknowledge the help of the staff in putting out the Courier during this school year.

It has been impossible to forward personally, all the praise and compliments we have received for our work. So what better way could I express this recognition to the staff, than in an open letter on our editorial page!

Thanks to all who worked with us to make our Courier the fine paper that it is.

Sincerely,
Beverly Wakeen

Horoscopes Look Promising As Seniors Doff Caps, Gowns

By Sara McAlpin

"Soon we will be marching to Circumstance and Pomps." Familiar words among the seniors these days, they mark the beginning rather than the end of activity for them. And a brief look at tea leaves, horoscopes, magic balls and the bare, but exciting, facts have given an insight into the futures of the '56 grads.

Teaching positions hold the immediate "fortune" of the largest percentage of this year's graduating class. Dorothea Durkin has signed a contract with the Milwaukee public school system to teach first grade. Linde O'Loan will be joining the faculty of a school in the Chicago area. Another prospective teacher of the "little ones" is Helen Kane.

Junior high school children will be the main attraction for Barbara Beuck and Dorothy McElroy.

Among the other teachers-to-be are Kathy Sullivan, Sara McAlpin, Marion Lifka, Kathye Burke, Mary Ann Kane, Rita Klemm, Geri Rogalski and Ann Horton.

Three home economics majors will follow their careers in various positions. Audrey Thiel will do test kitchen work in Chicago. A new assistant food supervisor for Stouffer's Restaurant corporation in Cleveland, Ohio, will be Mary Lou Schuller. Joanne Offerman will be employed by a utility company in the Washington, D.C., area.

Mary Dougherty will begin her duties in August as secretary to the assistant director of the Loyola University press in Chicago.

Merchandising will be the field for Bev Wakeen who has accepted a position with Dayton's in Minneapolis.

Wedding bells will call the "two Nancys" within a month of graduation. Nancy Steffen plans a June 9 wedding and Nancy Schmitz will be married June 30.

Sue Kelly has not yet accepted a position for next year but will spend the summer as a vocalist at King's Gateway, Land O'Lakes, Wis.

Clarkites Turn International; Travel Abroad to Study, Play

By Mona Putnam

College courses will have an international flavor next year for eight Clarkites. Charlene Craighead, Frances Dieter and Patricia Strouhal will enroll for their junior year at the University of Vienna's Institute of European Studies.

Joining them for the second semester are five other juniors, Mariclaire Costello, Barbara Bernoudy, Stephanie Simon, Jane Peck and Judy Werthmann.

Char, Fran and Pat will leave New York City Sept. 8. They will visit London for a week, spend two weeks in Paris and travel through Germany, Yugoslavia, and Switzerland before reaching their destination in Vienna.

Philosophy, modern European literature and history and German are basic requirements for the year. Fran and Charlene will choose art electives and Pat plans to spotlight music in her curriculum.

Spend Easter in Rome

Included in the program is a month of Easter vacation in Italy with Holy Week to be spent in Rome. A final whirl through North Africa and Spain before returning to France is on the agenda for the Clarke trio, who expect to be home by mid-July.

The second group of travelers will sail from New York harbor Feb. 2. Final arrangements for their five months abroad will be made next fall, but visits to England, Belgium, France, Italy, Yugoslavia, Switzerland and Germany are already on their tourist itinerary. They also will live with Viennese families.

Independent travel is scheduled for Judy Werthmann, who will visit her brother and his family at the England air force base where he is stationed. Jane Peck and Mariclaire Costello will also continue their European trips during the following summer.

Summer in Europe is in the immediate future for four Clarke students. Mary Jane Thornton, Bev Poire and Marian Haas will leave June 3 on an NFCCS-sponsored tour.

Bette Kirgis will fly to Bordeaux, France, Wednesday to be maid of honor at her sister's wedding.

Faculty Tour Abroad

Students aren't the only ones interested in European jaunts; the Clarke faculty will be represented abroad too. Edmund Demers of the art department will leave in June from Canada for a summer tour of Europe. Mr. Demers plans a leisurely visit to the art centers across the Atlantic.

Not to be overlooked is the Latin touch for Clarke students. Spanish majors Sue Gillespie and Mary Ann Walsh will spend July 2-Aug. 10 as students at Guadalajara summer school. Courses in Spanish conversation are the main objective for this pair, who plan side trips in Mexico City before they return from south of the border.

Not pictured: Mr. Harry Murphy, Aurora, Ill.; Mr. Leo T. Crowley, Madison, Wis., and Judge Win G. Knoch, Naperville, Ill.

First place in the editorial contest went to Marice Moylan for "Effective NFCCS." Beverly Wakeen received the second award for a Thanksgiving editorial and Marion Lafka took third prize with an editorial on retreat.

The Rev. Gerald Shekleton, assistant editor of The Witness, Dubuque diocesan newspaper, read the editorials.

The Florentine O'Brien Craemer drama award of $25 was shared by Kathy Burke and Patricia Dietzler.
